Linda Jo Rizzo

Entertainment at its best

Linda Jo Rizzo is the only professional entertainer in Europe who maintains the classic American definition of the word....

As a star guest on various major stages and opening act for artists such as George McCrea, Albano, Trini Lopez, Bonnie Tyler, Carl Douglas, Dieter Bohlen, Umberto Tozzi, Jürgen Drews, Heino, Roland Kaiser, Irene Sheer, Waterloo & Robinson, BadBoys Blue and The Platters, Linda rose quickly in popularity, and continues to this day.

Linda Jo Rizzo

...an Italian-American from New York, came to Europe in 1984 as part of a tour with the girl group "The Flirts". "Passion", the Top Ten hit from "The Flirts", charted for weeks in Germany and many countries around the world. This sensational success led to further hits like "Danger & Helpless". Linda's versatile talent began at the age of 18 as a runway model in New York and then as a fashion model for print, media and TV in Milan and Lisbon. (Amica, Laura Biagiotti, de Beers, Mulher d'Hoje, Schweppes and many more). Linda's first contact with the Italian pop scene was her participation in DD Sound (La Bionda-Baby Records) and Flora, Fauna e Cemento (CBS-Sugar Music), then later as a background singer for the Adriano Celentano tour.

At the age of 23 she returned to New York to study nutrition.

Discovered by Bobby Orlando in New York, producer of The Flirts, Divine, Pet Shop Boys, Linda toured the USA and Europe as a disco star. After leaving "The Flirts" in 1985, Linda came back to Germany to pursue her dream of a solo career as singer and entertainer. Her success brought her many appearances and interviews on top TV shows like RTL, ZDF, ORF, SAT 1, and, among others, the infamous "Star-Club" of Hamburg.
